Requirements

In order to be eligible for a travel scholarship, you must:

- Be enrolled at a German university, including students currently in an exchange semester at a non-German university. We accept any degree program and any academic year (i.e., freshmen to graduate level).
- Be in the top 5% of your program (or Abitur grade in the top 5% for freshmen), as demonstrated by grades/transcripts or scholarships/awards.
- Obtain the proper visa or travel authorization to the US (e.g., ESTA, if applicable). Please see the US State Department's Travel website for more information.
- Have or obtain international travel health insurance coverage.
- Cover your own travel to and from the airports.
- Accept that the travel scholarship will be voided if the conference is canceled or held remotely. The void also applies if government travel restrictions are imposed between the US and any affected countries.
- Agree to inform QuantCo by September 15, 2023, if you decide not to attend the GAC (so that we can award your travel scholarship to a runner-up).
- Give QuantCo consent to store your resume for up to 6 months starting from October 29, 2023, i.e., the last day of the GAC.

About QuantCo

We leverage expertise in economics, data science, and software engineering in Europe and the US. Founded in 2016, we have grown to a team of over 150 professionals with offices in Berlin, Boston, Cologne, Karlsruhe, London, Munich, San Francisco, and Zurich.

Our clients include some of the largest automotive, e-commerce, insurance, and healthcare organizations in the world, providing solutions such as algorithmic pricing, high-dimensional forecasting, and data-driven claims management.

QuantCo and the GAC

The 2023 German American Conference at Harvard offers a compelling opportunity for attendees to connect with leaders from both sides of the Atlantic. QuantCo can attest to the GAC's impact as many of our current and former colleagues have been speakers or organizers. As such, we want to help strengthen and foster more transatlantic relationships by bringing German students to the Conference.
